Description

FANTASTIC PRICE IMPROVEMENT! Downtown walkability at it's best and a terrific blend of historic charm and modern conveniences! This condo has been completely renovated by the previous owners from the studs back to a beautiful 2 bedroom/ 2 1/2 bath home PLUS 2 additional offices....perfect for working from home! This beautifully restored condo is in a Federal-Style brick home known as The Noyer-Wildhagen House circa 1807 and boasts the Carolopolis Award by the Charleston Preservation Society. There is on-site parking and currently does not require flood insurance. Upon entering the home from either the front door on Meeting St or the side door on the driveway side, you will find incredible details including wood floors, custom wood shutters, and period lighting. The entertaining area features exposed brick on the wall, a gas fireplace, a Sub-Zero wine fridge with beverage drawers and a custom built in bench for storage. The gorgeous chef's kitchen is beautifully appointed with Marble countertops, abundant custom cabinets, Wolf gas range, and Sub-zero refrigerator. A brand new mahogany door with matching screen door welcome you to a covered porch with ample room for entertaining and storage. Additional features of the home include Indow sound-reducing barrier windows, 3 yrs new split air conditioning units, tankless water heater, and a deeded off-street parking space! Centrally located in the heart of the historic district...Here you are approximately 0.2 miles from Marion Square, approximately 0.3 miles from the Historic Charleston City Market and the College of Charleston and one block from King Street. Don't miss this opportunity to own a stunning new condo in a historic building. Call your agent today!
